Description

The Universal Landscape idea implies approaching the landscape in such a way that it allows the participation and enjoyment of all people, including those who have certain limitations, such as intellectual disability.

The municipal territory of Matet has a good number of landscaping attractions to be admired by all, albeit not exempt from some barriers that limit their universal enjoyment. These barriers are not insurmountable because they only require adaptation so that these access, participation and enjoyment objectives are met for all.

Consequently, Matet's landscape becomes universal as it is adapted to intellectually disabled people's needs and requirements who, along a walk that is approximately 7 km long, can enjoy its agricultural, and also its urban landscape.
